

At the store off of 70
Where the trucks pulled in to stop

Near the busted burnt up tables
Where many drunken people fought

That's where Mom's Ex got naked
And started screaming unclear stuff

At first it felt like a big ol' prank
So we gathered 'round to call the bluff

Hey let's watch this guy lose it –
Ever seen a man break down?

His screaming it got louder
From his heap of clothes came a gun

We cautiously stepped back
To show the fear he rightfully won

It's a rural spot that store off 70
No one expected the cops to come fast

He flailed the gun at the heavens
Shouting out questions his sobriety never asked

Hey let's watch this guy lose it –
Ever seen a man break down?

Highway patrol rolled up behind him
And bellowed "lets take this nice and slow"

More guns came out with a megaphone
They told us bystanders to GO!

But hey let's watch this guy lose it –
Ever seen a man break down?

More orders from men and threats of law
They clearly knew his first name

Hey let's watch this guy lose it –
Ever seen a man break down?

He dropped to his knees to cry
Once they said they were done with his game

When the cuffs went on I wanted to say
That hey I knew his name too

From Saturday mornings in the living room
Where he'd join me to watch my favorite cartoon

They took him and his gun away
And in my head he's just a memory

Just some naked dude at a truck stop
Off of highway seventy

Not a man I watched lose it
Or thought would ever break down.
