

morning melodrama

busy birds

snatching seeds from a feeder through all weather, not deterred wind whipped by feeder swayed and swung around secretly I sat to spy overhead

a hungry hawk circled wide chickadee and sparrow fled to tall trees

seeking shelter and safety til dark threats and terrors ease